Truant officer to aid with absentee problems in county schools

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK Truant Officer Frank McNeill pledged Monday to do whatever possible to help eliminate absentee problems in the county schools. McNeill told the Hancock County School Board in their regular meeting, the majority of the students he sees are habitual truants and most of the time very far behind in their studies. McNeill encouraged stricter attendance requirements for Hancock schools.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph told the board perfect attendance would bring in an additional $250,000 to the district each year.

Cutting the absentees in half would get the district an extra $150,000," he said. In the current Hancock County School Handbook, students are only allowed to miss eight days without having to attend school on Saturdays or holidays to make up the days.

In a September meeting of the school board this number of allowed absentees was increased to 20.

No further action was taken on the absentee policy Monday.

Also at the meeting the board instructed Randolph to gather information on the cost to the district in granting a pay raise to substitute teachers.

A group of substitute teachers appeared at the meeting and requested an increase from $20 a day to $35 per

Randolph said the district had paid $38,000 for substitute teachers last year and before any raise could be given an analysis of the financial situation must be conducted. In other business the board:

Funds being sought for McLeod Park

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Park Commission has asked for assistance from Gulf Rogional Planning Commission in an effort to obtain funding for improvements at McLeod Water Park in Kiln.

Kathy Moon, a planning commission representative, met with park commission members Tuesday morning to discuss the types of funding available.

Although the park is countywned, work done there is approved through the Pearl River Basin Development District and any efforts to obtain funding will probably have to be coordinated with the district, Moon said.

She said some Land and Water Conservation funds may be available for the park, but the funding most likely to be available will be a grant in reimbursement form.

The grant is actually federal money but would be administered through the state. The park commission would be required to spend a minimum of $5,000 on capital imprograments and could obtain up to half of that amount as a reimbursefor administrative costs.

In preparation for obtaining such added.

a grant, the park commission would have to submit a plan for use of the funds, a budget and a cost estimate, all of which would first have to be approved by the board of supervisors.

The commission would also have to be able to demonstrate evidence of recreational planning, provide a commitment on local matching funds and agree to hold a public hearing on the proposed improvements, Moon said.

The commission plans to meet ment with three percent deducted with her again if its members decideto seek funding at this time, Moon

According to Park Commissioners Uless Bergeron, Hilda Bourg and Mary Caillier, improvements needed include more restroom facilities, dressing rooms and showers, larger hot water heaters for existing facilities, additional trailer hook-ups and camp sites, and erosion control.

In addition, Bergeron pointed out that only a small part of the 327-acre park has been developed and additional funding would allow more of the grounds to be used.

Agencies urge school board to hire agriculture teacher

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County School Board received five petitions Monday from agricultural agencies requesting an agriculture teacher be hired at Hancock North Central High School.

Petitions were received from the Hancock County organizations including the Cattleman's Association, the Fair Association, Farmers' Market, Soil and Water Conservation District and Pork Producers.

Each of the petitions requested an agriculture teacher be hired no later than Jan. 1.

School Superintendent Terrell Randolph said there are currently two applications for the postition but at the beginning of the second semester of school. Hancock County Extension Agent

Lee Taylor said he was pleased to... learn five different petitions were submitted to the board. County agricultural agencies appear to be united in an effort to encourage the school board to employee an agriculture teacher, he Taylor also pledged the support of the extension office in securing an agriculture teacher for HNC. "The agriculture industry in Hancock County represents $7 million of income annually and there are too many people and families involved recommended the position be filled in this industry to ignore the need for an agriculture teacher," Taylor said.

> Hancock is still primarily a rural county, he added. "With continued increases in the cost of living, more and more people need to learn how to grow vegetables and raise animals to supplement their food supply," he said.

"This situation has been dragged out too long and I believe that if an ag teacher is not hired by Jan. 1, many county residents will be very, very upset," Taylor added.

The board agreed to include the petitions in its minutes but no further action was taken.

Bay reports $100,000 decrease in uncollected utility bills

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Through increased collection efforts by the Bay St. Louis utilities department, funds owed to the city for utility services is approximately $100,000 less than a year ago.

Bay St. Louis City Clerk Edward Favre said Tuesday in city council meeting, the stepped up collection procedures by the utility department led by Lucien Kidd are mainly responsible for the tremendous improvement.

"Accounts receivable for active accounts totaled $263,240 a year ago," he said.

As of Sept. 30, this amount had been reduced to $164,729 for a $06,520

Waveland zones for business, board eyes electric fences

BY DENA BISNETTE

Waveland has a new business on its way and a new controversy in the hands of the board of aldermen.

On Tuesday, the board approved a planning and zoning board recommendation stanging the zoning classification from single family residence to commercial on an Leshaped parcel of property behind and west of Waveland Resort Inn.

The site is scheduled for development by JDN Enterprises, a Brentwood, Tenn., firm, as a new shopping center.

Mayor John Longo Jr. said the shopping center would include a Walmart Department Store and several other businesses.

In other business, the board delayed action on a dispute over electric fences in the city until more information is available,
Board Attorney Lucien Gex

presented the board with a proposal for arrordinance that would make it illegal to either construct or maintain an electric fence inside the city limits.

The matter was taken under advisement, however, after the board

Joann Odom and her family keep horses on their property on Magnolia Street, which is in the section of Shoreline Park that is included in the Waveland city limits.

The Odoms keep their livestock confined with an electric fence.

Robin Thornton, her husband Elmer Thorton and three of their children attended the meeting to support the proposed ban on electric fences. The Odom family lives next door to the Thornton residence.

Robin Thornton said the fence is a danger to her children and has already shocked one of them.

JACKSON— Less than a month before Mississippians are to vote on changing one of the cornerstones of the 1890 constitution—the barrier against governors serving two consecutive terms—there is amazingly little public discussion on the issue.

You might think that such a historic decision would have triggered a major debate on the pros and cons of gubernatorial succession especially since this is the first time Mississippians have ever had the chance to vote on the question.

The lack of public controversy seems to reflect an attitude that the average Mississippian doesn't care a lot about whether or not governors can be re-relected.

Or does it possibly mean that Mississippians are just sitting back and quietly planning to vote to keep the one-term limitation?

Normally, when it's very quiet before an election it indicates there is a deep negative feeling waiting to be expressed.

That, however, doesn't appear to be the case on gubernatorial succession, if the best available information on what the people are thinking holds true until election day.

A poll done in July for the Mississippi Republican Party by nationally respected pollster Robert Teeter showed 70 percent of those polled favored allowing governors to succeed themselves and only 26 percent against.

White voters, significantly, were slightly more in favor of the twoterm provision than black voters, by a margin of 73-63.

The latest Teeter poll indicates very little change in public opinion on gubernatorial succession from another poll that had been run earlier in the year showing about 75 percent in favor of allowing a second

Apparently, however, many Mississippians are not aware that the amendment to be voted on Nov. 4 would allow Gov. Bill Allain to seek a second term. This writer has encountered numbers of people around the state who thought the amendment applied to the next governor. and not Allain.

Inclusion of Allain in the succession amendment was actually an unexpected development when it came out of the House Constitution. committee back in January. Some speculated that this was done intentionally to keep it from passing the

There is still speculation in capitolcircles that lawmakers had a secret agenda in framing the amendment so that it would allow Allain to run again if it passes. This, goes the speculation, is the best way to defeat the amendment at the polls, and thereby, put gubernatorial succession to rest for years to come.

If such a strategy ever existed in the minds of legislators, it seems very likely right now that it won't

The possibility raised by political observers several months ago that the vote on gubernatorial succession would turn into a referendum on Bill Allain also doesn't seem to have materialized, at least on any widespread scale.

By and large, the Teeter poll indicates Mississippians are generally able to separate the issue of gubernatorial succession from the person who now occupies the governor's chair.

Hence, the 70 percent favorable vote for succession doesn't reflect Allain's popularity rating, which, sources familiar with the poll say, is significantly lower.

Allain is believed to have done some polling of his own in the past couple of months on the succession amendment, and also on public perception of his administration. Whatever information he has turned up, he is keeping very close to his

Some rumblings have been heard recently from at least one anti-Allain political quarter opposing the amendment on grounds it would give thim the inside track to win the 1987 gubernatorial race.

Alvin Chambliss, a legal services attorney in Oxford and a black political activist, said he is waging a campaign among blacks to defeat the amendment "as the best way of getting rid of Bill Allain." Otherwise, Chambliss charges, "we are going to have Allain four more

The Mississippi Economic Council this week is launching a campaign in support of the succession amendment and seeking to enlist other organizations to join if.

But, if there is any organized opposition to the amendment, it has certainly kept a low profile.

I once saw a man testify on the witness stand that he did not have his glasses and, thus, could not read a document that was important to his testimony. In fact, though, the man could not read. What degree of pride and embarrassment must exist to make a person perjure himself on the witness stand?

The volunteers attending our conference told me stories of students who have experienced the new excitement of discovery found in reading. With more than 45 percent of our state's poplulation without a high school diploma, we need to spread that discovery throughout the state.

In Mississippi, we cannot use the old adage, "What you don't know, won't hurt you." In our case, it should be: "What you don't know hurts you every day."

Bay St. Louis

Congratulations to the staff and management of the Sea Coast Echo during the observance of National Newspaper Week, Oct. 5-11.

I am sure all of you share a sense of pride in the contributions your paper has made during years past to the Bay St. Louis and Waveland

While it is easy for those associated with the Sea Coast Echo to recall the tremendous advancements made in the technological aspects of your industry, many of us have taken for granted the extensive investment of time and money necessary to produce a newspaper.

Thank you for your efforts to provide professional news coverage. We at South Central Bell understand the difficulty of your task and appreciate your dedications to it.

International Newspaper Carrier Day

I am delighted to salute America's newspaper carriers on International Newspaper Carrier Day.

Our participatory democracy depends on a free press serving a free people. Newspaper carriers are part of America's news distribution system that gets more news to more people than any other system in history. Your efforts ensure that the American people will have the information they need to make intelligent choices in self-government.

Newspaper serviers should be proud not only of their honest work for a honest dollar, but also for their key part in keeping our nation well informed.

South Mississippians. One bill which has passed the House designates a segment of the Black Creek in Forrest County as a Wild and Scenic River. The effect of this bill is to preserve with cance float enthusiasts.

in its natural state 21 miles of this beautiful waterway already popular

Two other pieces of legislation for South Mississippians fall into the category of private relief legislation. A private bill is a measure of last resort in some - though not all cases, when all other means of resolving a citizen's problem with the government have been exhausted through the processes of current law or in the courts.

Most private bills never make it through the Congress, and those that do, usually take years to complete the process. The burden of need set on these bills by the Congress is tough, and the process is complicated because no two cases brought before the Congress are the same. Each must be considered on its own merits.

One private bill which I originally introduced in 1963 did make it to the President's desk to be signed into law on September 25. The bill provides a South Mississippi man the opportunity to raise a claim in a court of law against the federal government for compensation relating to disfiguring injuries he received as a minor in a military bus accident.

The legislation was necessary because the statute of limitations, the period of time provided in the law for raising a claim for compen- . sation following an accident in which negligence is alleged, ran out before this young man turned 18 and was able to initiate a court action.

Another private relief matter I am bringing before the House is necessary to resolve a question of ownership of land in Waynesboro.

A Waynesboro couple in their seventies, who have paid taxes for almost a half century on land they thought, was their home, were informed in 1984 that an apparent flaw in the title over 150 years ago indicated that the federal government was still the technical owner of their

Unfortunately, even though a federal law exists to provide citizens relief in such cases, gaps in land records due to two fires in the Wayne County Courthouse and problems during the Great Depression prevented the couple from technically showing that they were the rightful owners.

After working with them for two years to try to resolve the question of ownership within the bounds of current Mississippi and federal law, the last resort was a claim for relief which is one of those "smell" bills now pending before the House of Representatives.

E. G. Marshall and Alice Haining, formerly of Jackson, star in the public television special "Ike" about the life of Dwight David Eisenhower at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 15, on Mississippi ETV.

"Ike" was filmed at Eisenhower's farm in Gettysburg. Emmy Awardwinning Marshall portrays Ike in 1967, two years before his death at County Engineer Larry Seal and Beat Five Supervisor James Travirca, a former contractor, to determine which is the best bid. The bids ranged from about $79,000 to about $93,000. Travirca, who redrew plans from a Harrison County beat barn for the facility, had estimated the cost at $80,000.

The board is expected to accept a bld at its Oct. 14 meeting. The delay will give the county time to finalize the purchase of the site, which was approved on Sept. 29, Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner said.

Also on Monday, the board authorized Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson to attempt to transfer Mary Beth Ryan, the county's only temale prisoner, to a jail in another county.

The decision was prompted by a complaint from parents of children involved in two cases in which Ryan under advisement Monday to allow . was convicted of fondling and sexual

UM high school writers awards established

An award named in honor of noted Mississippi author Eudora Welty has been established by The University of Mississippi to encourage young writers in the state.

The Eudora Welty Award for Creative Writing will be presented annually to two high school students for fiction written during the previous year. Funds for first and second place awards-$500 and $250 respectively—are provided by Frances Patterson of Tupelo:

"Our state's rich contribution to American literature is symbolized by the life and work of Eudora Welty," said Dr. William Ferris, director of the Center for the Study of Southern Culture at the university. "Miss Welty's dedication to her craft and her generous support and encouragement of other writers are a model to which young writers can aspire."

-Each school district in Mississippi is encouraged to submit one entry (either a short story or a peom) to the Center for the Study of Southern Culture, The University of Mississippi, University, MS 39677. The maximum length for short stories is 3,000 words; for poetry the limit is 100 lines. Deadline for submission is March 1, 1987.

Entries will be judged by the faculty of the Ole Miss Department of English. The awards will be presented during the university's annual Faulker and Yoknapatwpha Conference in August 1987.

"Electric co-ops use and maintain. more than half of all distribution lines needed to supply electricity in the United States. That's service to 25 million people in 46 states, almost 11 percent of this nation's total population," Occhi concluded.

Cooperatives are unique organizations in America's business world. They are owned by the members whom receive the service or goods. Co-ops, operate under very democratic principles. Each member has a voice and vote in the business matters of the organization.,

Co-ops are non-profit business, providing their service or goods to members at cost. In last week's article we discussed treatment of active Southern Pine Beetle spots. To summarize, the best treatment in forest settings is to salvage both the infested trees and a buffer area in front of the direction of spread. If the trees can't be sold, they should be cut and left in the Many landowners ask, "Wouldn't t be a lot easier if we could just spray the trees?"

Yes, if we had a chemical that was effective, safe, easy to apply and economical.

The problem with Southern Pine Beetles is that they're bark beetles, and the bark of the tree must be thoroughly sprayed - a slow and expensive procedure. Aerial spraying is faster and cheaper, but it won't work, because the tree canonies will not allow sufficient penetration from Lindane which has been around since 1950, is effective in controlling bark beetles, but it does have some very serious drawbacks. It contains chlorinated hydro-carbons, which have become highly controversial. Problems include safety hazards, toxicity to nontarget organisms, and the fact that they "hang around" (persist) in the environment.

In 1969, the Mrak Commission on pesticides and their relationship to the environment (U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare) recommended that the use of persistent insecticides, including Lindane, be restricted to essential purposes and be replaced by safer alternatives whenever possible.

Researchers began looking for safer insecticides. One of the most promising is Duraban 4E, which is labeled for use against Southern, Pine Beetles.

The most effective use of these chamicals is as a preventative spray on high-Yaliae table on lawfa said in recreation areas.

All pesticides should be handled tions given on the container, and mix according to label directions.

Spray infested pine trees and all homogeners routinely spray all. trees in their yards.

Bootles usually begin attacking a tree in the mid portion of the trunk. For a spray to be effective, it must reach at least this point and slightly higher. Spraying to the lower branches would offer more complete protection. Pump-up type sprayers adjusted to deliver a straight stream could be used on smaller trees but large trees would almost have to be treated with some type of high pressure spray equipment.

Wet the tree to the point that the spray begins running down the trunk. Getting the spray mixture into all the cracks and crevices of the bark is important. Two applications . during the summer months should suffice.

Research is now underway to find an effective systemic insecticide one that will be taken in through the needles or roots and transported throughout the tree, thereby killing beetles under the bark.

Scientists are also trying to find ef-factive behavioral chemicals. These could confuse the insects in a number of ways, such as interferr-ing with mating or population movements to new trees.

If cheep and effective chemicals of this type can be found, serial application may become more feasible, and we will have a powerful new weapon to use in our war against Southern Pine Beetles.

But that's in the future. For now, the best defense in the forest setting is proper management of pine stands. Don't let them grow too thick, weed out diseased or lightning-struck trees, etc..

Remember, the best remedy remains prompt salvage or cutting of infested trees and trees in a buffer zone in the path of the beetle's

October is Energy Month

Energy advertisements don't always tell whole truth

MISSISSIPPI STATE—With fall officially here and the winter heating season not too far away, October is American Energy Awareness Month to call attention to the wise use of energy.

"With the winter season upon us. the number of advertisements for energy-saving products is increasing," said Dr. Carol Short, an energy program specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, "Read advertising claims carefully and remember that some advertisements don't quite tell the whole truth.

Mrs. Short provided some examples of advertising claims about energy products.

For example, an advertisement of the control of the cut your heat loss 50 percent."

"But that's not the only place best is lost through the structure. The reduction in total winter time fuel consumption may actually range from 14 to 25 percent, depending on others in the immediate vicinity (at the amount of window area, how least one hundred feet). Many leaky the windows are and the energy-efficiency of the rest of the house," she said.

*Another advertisement may claim that using ceiling fans on a year-around basis can save between 25 and 45 percent on total energy costs for comfort.

The average person feels seven to 18 degrees cooler when air is moving. It is possible to raise the thermostat as much as seven degrees when operating a ceiling fan and still feel the same degree of comfort. A savings of about 7 percent on air conditioning is possible for each degree Fahrenheit the thermostat is raised above 72 degrees.

"However, calling fans will reduce cooling costs only if the air-Mrs. Sport said. Too often this is over looked."

national energy consultant calculated that in a normal home with 7,5 to eight feet ceilings, ceiling fans would provide little savings. Other claims are even more exaggerated. A report in the U.S. Government's General Accounting Office cited the following examples of advertising claims and disputed fin-*Save up to 30 percent on home heating costs with vent dampers. Tests by National Bureau of Standards show average possible savings of 8 percent, maximum of 16 percent on oil furnaces."

American Gas Association tests showed savings of 5 percent on gas furnaces. The ads do not cite conditions necessary, such as the fact that vent dampers are not useful for furnaces in unheated areas.

*"Get 15 to 40 percent energy savings with siding."

A U.S. Department of Energy analysis of the same house for which the claim was made showed foambacked aluminum siding would save only 5 percent of heating costs.

*"Use light buttons to save an average of 50 percent in electricity. though there is a reduction in light output."

A study done for DOE showed this device reduced electric use to a 100-waft bulb by 42 percent rather than 50 percent and reduced light by 74 percent. A 40-watt bulb would do the same at about two thirds less

*"A free-standing wood stove tested at 68 percent efficiency, which is 65 percent better than the average air-tight stove. Efficiency ranged from 76 to 83 percent. Utilize your wood."

A wood stove testing program at Auburn University showed airtight units were 40 to 60 percent efficient. The official involved said he has never tested a stove that was 70 percent efficient and doubts any claim for that amount.

"Generally speaking, other than turning the heat off for a great part of the time, there's not much that can be done to reduce a utility bill 50 percent," Mrs. Short said.

However, the wise purchase of energy-efficient products and the proper addition of energy saving measures can result in a reduction in total energy costs. And most families can realize some savings simply by using commonsense 100 percent of heating energy from measures to eliminate wasted energy. The apple sage matter that is an a

NEW CONTRACT—Being constructed in four hull sections at Ingalls Shipbuilding in Pascagoula is the Wasp (LHD 1). First in the class, the LHD 1 is the lead ship in a new class of multipurpose amphibious assault ships being built for the U.S. Navy. The construction of the four sections, known as modules, is in preparation for integration this fall and launch in mid-1987. Sept. 11, the Navy announced that Ingalls had been awarded, following ma-

Ingalls gets $402 million contract for amphibious assault ships

The U.S. Navy recenlty reported Ingalls Shipbuilding in Pascagoula has won a major competition to build three additional Wasp (LHD 1) Class multipurpose amphibious assault ships.

Ingalls is currently building the lead ship of this class, Wasp (LHD 1), under a contract awarded in 1984. In the announcement, Ingalls was awarded a 402.5 million contract for the second ship of the class. The contract contains options for two more ships, one to be awarded in December 1987, the other in December, 1988. The three additional ships have a potential contract value of over $1.1 billion.

'Winning this contract was vitally important to Ingalls and the economy of the Gulf Coast area," said Jerry St. Pe', senior vice president of Litton and president of Ingalls Shipbuilding.

"It will provide the solid business base necessary for our shipyard to be successful in winning several additional shipbuilding contracts which collectively could result in future increased employment over the shipyard's current work force of

. St. Pe' said the principal employment impact of the additional LHDs will not be felt for several years, until early 1989. In the meantime, employment is expected to gradually decline to about 11,000 during 1987, and 10,000 in 1988, before the possibility of an increase in 1989. "While near-term reductions in the total work force cannot be avoided, today's contract award means that the shipyard can continue to operate at high levels of employment," St. Pe' said.

"Without this award, the employment would have dropped by many thousands, well below the 10,000 level. The new contract places our shipyard in an excellent position to provide a continuing bright future for our company, our work force, and our community. But we must be successful in winning other contracts. The additional LHDs alone are not enough to achieve the desired high level of employment." A The LHD program alone will provide work for about 6,000 workers during the peak production periods.

Construction will extend through mid-1993.

"Beyond the LHD program, future employment will be influenced by Ingalls' continued success in the Navy's Aegis shipbuilding programs," St. Pe' said.

Ingalls is the Navy's lead shipbuilder for its new class of Aegis guided missile cruisers, having been awarded contracts to build 13 of the ships (five of which have already been delivered to the Navy). Eight additional Aegis cruisers will be awarded over the next several years in competitive bidding. And later this year Ingalls will be bidding to become the Navy's second-source shipbuilder of the new DDG 51 Aegis destroyers.

"It is essential, even with today's success with the LHD program, that we maintain our strong position in the Aegis cruiser program and that we be successful in the upcoming competition to participate in the Navy's new Aegis destroyer program," said St. Pe'. "There will be strong competition in both these programs during the next six months."

"Continued success with available new business opportunities could result in a 14,000-plus level work force by 1990," St. Pe' said, "that could extend well into the 1990s."

"Winning this LHD follow-ship contract was not an easy task," he said. "Because of the tremendous competition for these ships, we concentrated for two years on improving our shipyard's productivity.

"We must continue to work to bring the shipyard to its full potential of productivity and efficiency in order to met the goals we must achieve in terms of quality, schedule and cost performance,

"Our success in the future, as in the past, will be influenced by the high work ethic of our employees, their understanding of the highly competitive nature of the shipbuilding industry and their support of what must be done to keep us competitive."

The first ship of the LHD class, Wasp (LHD 1), is well into produc-tion at ingalls, with delivery to the Navy scheduled for early 1960.

Under the contract awarded today, LHD 2 will be delivered in early 1992; LHD 3 in late 1992; and LHD 4 ducted simultaneously.

in mid 1993. The LHD ships will have a primary mission of embarkation. deployment, landing and support of a marine landing force. In carrying out his mission, LHD will mount an assault of helicopters, fixed wing jets, landing craft and other amphibious vehicles in various com-

The new ship is designed to accommodate the Navy's new air cushion landing craft (LCAC) and short-take-of Harrier (AV BB) jets, in addition to a full range of Navy helicopters. The new class will significantly improve and revitalize the Navy/Marine Corps team's sealift capability.

Outfitted for this primary mission, LHDs will carry 30-32 CH 46 helicopters (or equivalents), plus six to eight Harriers.

The ships will be 844 feet long, with a beam of 106 feet. Two steam propulsion plants, developing a combined 70,000 horsepower, will drive the 40,500-ton ship to speeds in excess of 20 knots.

The LHDs will have more than 2,000 square feet of vehicle space, and 100,000 cubic feet of cargo space. Accommodations for nearly 3,000 troops and crewmen are included in the ship's living areas. LHDs will have a 600-bed hospital and six fully-equipped operating rooms.

Six cargo elevators, three of which will serve hangar and flight deck operations, will bring cargo, ammunition and supplies from the cargo holds below. Flight deck and well deck operations may be con-

Mr. Law Enforcement Officer

The Law Enforcement Officer and the Citizen

As a citizen are you aware of the safety precautions you should take when you are being stopped by the

Obviously, the first thing that happens when you see those blue lights in your rearview mirror is that your heart jumps into your throat. Guilty concience or not you say to yourself, "What have I done now?" and then you think, "What am I going to do

There are safety procedures that you should follow that will be the safest for you and the officer, and will facilitate a faster, smoother stop. Allowing both you and the officer to be back on the road in the least amount of time.

These are precautions you should

a) First, yield to the blue lights by politing am far off the right side of the road as the shoulder will allow and stop slowly and safely.

and allows the officer to set his car as a possible barrier and buffer of protection from oncoming traffic. b) Secondly, turn the engine of your vehicle off.

This will eliminate the possibility of your car "jumping" in gear and rolling forward into the ditch or traffic or backwards onto the officer and

c) Thirdly, if it is night, turn off your headlights and leave your parking lights on. If it is daylight turn on your parking and/or flasher lights. This will keep you visible to traffic approaching from both directions, and you will not be blinding forward approaching traffic with your d) Fourthly and very important, stay in your vehicle and wait for the officer to approach you. If you have passengers in your vehicle tell them to sit quietly but do not, I repeat, do not get out of the vehicle unless told to do so by the officer.

It makes officers very vulnerable n controlling the situation when you get out of your vehicle or you and several people exit your vehicle.

e) Finally, you should follow all the instructions the officer gives

If he wants you to get out and come to him, wait for him to tell you. If he wants you and all friends out of the car, let him tell you verbally.

These safety precautions and procedures are now being practiced almost everywhere by most law enforcement agencies in all states. Through studies and research it has been found that this is the safest, smoothest and most practical way for both the citizen and the officer to expedite a traffic stop.

Now that you have swallowed that lump in your throat, and your heart has stopped pounding, you find that he only stopped you to return your wallet or purse you left, on the counter at the quick-stop.

Records said the work was well underway and the woodwork should be finished this week.

He added that additional rotted structural damage had been discovered during renovations but that work was not expected to be delayed more than a couple of days.

The project should be completed before the end of the month, he said. Bay resident Tom Farve asked the board to reopen the Valena C. Jones gymnasium.

Mayor Victor Franckiewicz Jr. told Farve the gym had been closed due to the deteriorated condition of the floor and because the city had no liability insurance to cover accidents in the building.

No action was taken on the issue but the council did request proposals from local contractors be sought on costs of repairing the floor. Anthony Bereung, a licensed air-conditioning contractor, proposed the council begin-requiring any irconditioning contractors work g within the city take a test specifically geared to this work.

He also told the council, these contractors should also be required to have a Mississippi sales tax number.

The council agreed there needed to be more restrictions for these contractors and took the matter under advisement.

Hawks break into top 10

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock North Central Hawks are now ranked eighth by the Associated Press among Mississippi high school football top teams.

Although included in the Top 20 for much of the season, last week's win over St. Stanislaus pushed the HNC team into the top 10 for the first time in the history of the school.

Hancock Head Coach Irvin Favre is excited about the ranking but says. the Hawks will now be working extra

"A top 10 ranking generally gives your opponents extra fuel," he add-

Favre said players always want to defeat a ranked team, especially those in the top 10.

"The high ranking can give opponents a high level of motivation which then requires double efforts to counteract with extra motivation for your own team," Favre said.

"The pressure is on, the coaches know it and the team knows it," he added.

"We will be putting our undefeated record and possibly the state ranking on the line and believe we are ready for it," Favre said.

With a season record of 5-0 the Hawks are one of five teams in the top group with undefeated records. Meridian High School is currently ranked No. 1, with at 4-0-1 season record.'

Other top 10 teams are Warren Central, Clarksdale, West Point, Starkville, Rosedale, Tupelo, Moss Point and Neshoba Central.

In the voting, Hancock did receive a vote for the first place slot.

Prior to this year, the highest state ranking a Hancock team received was in 1978 when the undefeated Hawk team was ranked 12th.

"The state ranking is doing a lot of things for the county as well as Hancock North Central by giving statewide exposure to the area," Favre said.

This week the Hawks will host district rival St. Martin. Kickoff will be at 7:30 p.m.

Scott Favre turns in 'best night' in Wildcat-East Central victory

POPLARVILLE The Pearl Nelson, the Wildcats' head couch. River Wildcale pushed their second in $-1 in Poplarville Saturday night with a 147 win over the East

I know we car." Nelson said. "Our effort must be much more physical this week against Gulf Coast."

The Pearl River secondary pulled down four interceptions to keep the East Central bunch out of the end zone. Dennis Rhodes, a Bay St. Louis sophomore, came away with his second and third steals of the year, while Larry Copeland and Stanford Lewis grabbed one each.

Sophomore tackle Marshall Roberts of Covington was singled out by Nelson as having a great game. "When it was first and goal they (East Central) made the mistake of trying to cover Marshall twice," Nelson said. "He is one solid football player."

Sophomore quarterback Scott Favre of Hancock North Central had his best night of the season. Favre passed for two touchdowns while completing seven of nine for 159

"I'm really, really proud of Scott," Nelson said.

Pearl River punter Donnie Powell of Shreveport, La., punted the ball just seven points and it did stop the six times for a 45-yard average including a slutch 78 yarder late in the game.

The Wildcats will take on rival "We didn't hit with the tenacity as Gulf Coast this coming Saturday in Biloxi.

> The annual war between the Wildcats and Bulldogs is set for 7:30

It's the 55th recorded meeting of this classic rivalry. Pearl River has the series advantage, winning 32 of the previous 54 battles, however, it is Gulf Coast with the upper hand over the last 15 years.

Since 1971 the George Sekul led Bulldogs have won 11 games while the PRC Wildca's have mustered only four victories. Those wins came in 1972, '73, '76 and '81.

After those wins in '73, '76 and '81 the Wildcats went on to win the South and a berth in the state championship game. The Wildcats won the overall crown in '76 but lost it to Holmes in '81 and Mississippi Delta

This year the Wildcats are leading the South Division with a perfect 3-0 ledger and 5-1 overall mark. The Bulldogs are 4-2 over and 2-1 in the conference. A Wildcat win this Saturday would

St. Stanislaus came back in the first half to take a 7-8 lead as Shannon Garrett connected with Freddle Whatrom for the touchdown pass.

HNC fought back late in the first half to regain the lead as they scored on a 60-yard drive, Fullback Casey Hoda ran off tackle for the four-yard touchdown run. Quarterback Jeff Moran bootlegged the extra point around left end successfully for the two-point conversion.

SSC Coach Larry Ramsey credited the following ballplayers with good play: Freddie Wirstrom who played "solid ball" throughout the game; safety Gary Ponthioux who hit hard and caused a fumble; Justin Homes who had two fumble recoveries in the second half giving SSC good field position; and Andre Rollins who held his ground at outside linebacker making several key tackles.

Coach Ramesy commented that the SSC offence showed improvement in all phases of the game, while gaining valuable experience.

Coach Joe Shaw's FINC Hawks are now 2-1 for the season and will play next week.

give PRC an excellent shot at another playoff spot. But as Mike Nelson, the Cats' head coach, said Monday, "It won't come easy."

Nelson should know, as he was an assistant at Gulf Coast eight of the last 10 years.

Last year, in the first meeting since Nelson left the Bulldogs and Sekul to become the Wildcats' head man, the PRC bunch jumped out to a 7-0 lead before the Bulldogs came back to take a 10-6 win in Biloxi.

It was the fourth Bulldog win in a row over the Wildcats. It was a hard pill to swallow for the team, coaches and loval PRC fans.

"This game is vitally important to both teams," Nelson said. "Naturally if we win, it means we will have a 40 conference mark, however, if Gulf Coast wins, it means they are right back in the race."

Pearl River and Co-Lin are tied for first place, how are Hinds and Gulf Coast with 2-1 marks. Co-Lin and Hinds play this week.

"Gulf Coast has an excellent ballclub," Nelson said. "They have a lot of talent and an excellent ballclub. But more than that they have a winning tradition."

Nelson said the Bulldogs are very strong on defense and they field good runners and receivers. "We'll have to have an extra good effort to defeat them," Nelson said.

LA-LA MORGAN

Oliver Morgan is a singer and musician who played a major role in establishing the "New Orleans R&B Sound." An adept performer on piano and drums, he has also performed backup vocals and lead vocals with artists such as James Brown, Fats Domino, Jackie Wilson, Jean Knight, Lee Dorsey, Percy Sledge and Jerry Butler.

During the '60s and '70s,' Oliver Morgan recorded and released 13 singles. His first hit single 1962 gave him the nickname he is known by today, Oliver "WHO SHOT THE LA LA" Morgan. He toured the U.S. during most of the sixtles, eventually returning home to perform to the delight of locals and tourists for 6 years in the 544 Club on Bourbon Street. His last gig as a touring musician was with Joe Frazier's Night Club act that performed while he was Heavyweight Champion of the Oliver Morgan began his career singing in a church choir, and as a member of a gospel quartet that included Jessie Hill and Melvin & David Lastie. Oliver enjoys performing at fairs and festivals, hotel ballrooms, for convention visitors, and occasionally you can catch him in a neighborhood nitespot.

Oliver Morgan describes himself as a "real soulful" singer. He takes great pride in the fact that he was the first New Orleans artist to bring the traditional "Second Line" umbrellas into a club situation, an idea copied by a multitude of performers today! " I like having my audience be a part of my show," he explains, "I want to be sure everyone enjoys themselves and has a real good time!"

If you love the Fats Domino style of music, you'll love my band!" And it is really true...his piano player, Reggie Hall, is Fats' brother-inlaw. His repetoire includes songs made famous by New Orleans' greats, Lloyd Price, Clarence Henry, Fats Domino, and he performs an incredible medly of Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong tunes. Oliver Morgan and his band bring true excitement and a special energy to all their performances.

SCORELESS

HATTIESBURG-Saturday's loss to Kentucky was only the third time since 1960 that the Golden Eagles have been held scoreless by an opponent. Auburn blanked the Eagles in '80, and then Northwest Louisiana did it in '84.

WEEK OFF

HATTIESBURG-One has to look no further than the records of USM's last four opponents to understand the Golden Eagles' current 2-3 record.

The teams that comprise the longest USM road trip since 1977, Alabama, Mississippi State, Texas A & M and Kentucky, show a combined record of 16-2-1.

That includes Alabama at 5-0, Mississippi State at 4-1, Texas A & M at 4-1 and Kentucky at 3-0-1.

The Eagles now take a muchneeded week off before hosting Memphis State for homecoming Oct.

FROM THE SIDELINE—Hancack North Central Halfback Delano Lewis gets one of his few opportunities to watch the Hawks in action from the sideline. Lewis was recently awarded both Defensive and Olfensive Player of the Week awards. He twisted his ankle Friday in the St. Stanislaus game but is expected to return to action this week against St. Martin. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

BACK TO PASS—Bay High quarterback Dwayne Robertson (12) drops back to pass as he is defended Friday by Billy Ross (51), Aaron Whavers (44) and Quentin Bell (11). The Tigers shut out East Central 314 last week and this week will celebrate their 1986 homecoming by hosting the Long Beach Bearcats. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Gulf scientists mobilize on redfish research

The recent, explosive "Gulf Red-fish Crisis," with recreational and commercial fishermen vying for the valuable gamefish served in restaurants as "blackened redfish," has had an unexpected turn: unprecedented cooperation among the region's fishery scientists.

Traditional-and sometimes flerce-competitors for the dwindling research dollar, scientists from management agencies and universities throughout the Gulf have this time banded together to develop and conduct a coordinated research plan for the Gulf's valuable red drum (redfish) resource.

The plan was prompted by growing fears that redfish were rapidly being overfished in state and federal

In July, U.S. Secretary of Commerce Malcolm Baldridge closed offshore (federal) waters in the Gulf to net fishing directed specifically for red drum. No commercial fishing in offshore waters will be permitted through at least December of this year, while Commerce's Red Drum Fishery Management Plan is reviewed by the public and management agencies.

If the management plan is approved as it currently is written, all commercial fishing targeted toward red drum in federal waters will be prohibited for at least one year. Recreational fishing, however, will be permitted, as well as a carefully monitored and controlled onemillion pound offshore research

Under the initial emergency regulations, a commercial allocation of one million pounds of redfish was permitted in federal waters for purse seine and entaglement net fishermen,

In June and July, six commercial vessels landed "reds" in the only two Gulf states permitting purseseined redfish landings, Alabama and Louisiana.

During these operations, the fishing industry cooperated with the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), the federal agency responsible for managing fisheries in offshore waters, and with the Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, and Louisiana

Department of Wildlife and Fisheries, to begin obtaining the information specified by the research

Fish specimens were also provided to Louisians State University and Auburn University for age and growth studies-because of the species' unusually long lifespan (suspected to 30 years or more), it is critical to determine the age struc-ture of the offshore stocks if an adequate number of spawners is to be maintained.

Most of this research is being funded through the Marine Fisheries Initiative (MARFIN), a federallyfunded program administered by NMFS to develop and conserve Gulf of Mexico fishery resources. Sixteen Separate redfish projects have already been funded under MARFIN and other NWFS programs, with much of the funding going to researchers at tribursities and state management agencies.

In addition to the work in Alabama and Louisiand; major efforts are being mounted by the Mississippl Department of Wildlife Conservation, Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Florida Department of natural Resources, Texas Parks and Wildlife Dapartment, regional universities, and the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission.

At the same time, NMFS Southeast Fisheries Center is conducting studies through its Mississippi, Miami, and Panama Clty laboratories to determine the size of the offstere redfish stocks, and their age structure.

In addition to large fish being tagged offshore, small redfish will be tagged inshore to permit a study of their growth and movement. Coastal boaters and fishermen will have a change to actively par-ticipate in this cooperative research effort during the program's intensive redfish tagging program.

Personnel from the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory are also participating on teams of state, university and federal biologists who are presently tagging large redfish and plan to tag and release 20,000 "reda" by November.

Anglers, commercial shrimpers, and other fishermen capturing redfish bearing colored plastic streamer tags are saked to contact the National Marine Fisheries Service or the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory and return the tag along with information on the date and location of capture.

Those interested in the redish issue are also invited to attend the Cooperative Red Drum Research Program Conference, to be held Tuesday, Oct. 14 at the Sheraton New Orleans on Canal Street.

The conference, held in conjunction with the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission's fall meeting, will begin at I p.m. and will focus on recent results of the redfish research, including the tagging project, and the participants' plans for the next year.

For further information, contact Dr. Thomas D. Mcliwain, Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, (601)

Tigers to host revenge-bound Bearcats. in 1986 homecoming battle Friday

Revenge is expected to be the opposition's motive for victory Friday when the homecoming Bay High o Tigers host the Long Beach Bear-

Bay High spoiled the 1965 Bearcat homecoming 28-6 and Bay Head Coach Clevand Williams said he expacts the Bearcats to be bent on doing the same thing to Bay High this Bay High is also outsized by Long Beach and will have to be ready to cope with a bigger opponent, the coach said.

"The Long Beach Club is huge this year with a lot of juniors whose weights run from 225 to 260 pounds, and they have a big back named Robert Taylor who can run the ball well," Williams said.

"Their passing game helps balance their offensive attack and is quick, particularly with their wingback and split end."

"Taylor has good hands, receiving for the Bearcats, and a lot of their pass routes are centeres around

Although Williams has not made many changes in the Tiger strategy this season, some adjustments are being used to compensate for the size of the Bearcats.

"We are making adjustments for this game because of the size of their defensive players, and because we know they would like to take this game from us because of what happened at their homecoming last year," Williams explained.

He said Long Beach is in a rebuilding year, but shows a lot of potential for posting points on the scoreboard.

"That really gives the Tigers something to be concerned with Friday," the coach said.

Long Beach, classified as 5-A, is also one of the largest schools that Bay High will play this season and is the first game on the 1986 schedule that is not a match between two 3-A schools.

"We are looking forward to this hard-hitting contest against this 5-A school and we are expecting to fight for our lives," Williams said.

An advantage for Bay High this week against Long Beach will be a balanced offensive attack.

"We are a lot smaller than Long Beach but they will have to respect our ability to run and pass the ball," Williams said.

"Our big backs have done a tremendous ion for the Pi games and our aerial attack has been improving, but we are expecting a lot of different things to confront our club."

We are hoping that we will be able to play two solidly good halves and overcome the mental breakdowns we had at East Central this past week."

The Bay High defense will also have to be on guard against the

"The Tiger defense has shown a lot of improvement in the past weeks against the run as well as the serial attack, but we have to be ready to stop Long Beach with their ability to do so many things well," Williams

"The Tiger ballclub has been spending long hours in preparation for this contest and to be able to win this one we need both our offense and detense to have a good night."

Starters for the Long Beach game are expected to include the outstanding offensive and defensive players selected for their performances last week in Bay High's 31-0 strutout at East Central.

Tight end Robert Hargett was named outstanding offensive player and was selected by Williams "for his superior blocking and catching the ball in clutch situations."

Outstanding defensive player was guard Greg Necaise. He contributed It assisted tackles and five unassisted tackles to the victory over East Central.

Williams also commended the Tiger secondary, which he said has improved each week to the point * * * * *

Jamie Butsch Seventh Grade St. Clare School

LEARN NOT TO BURN

A lot of kids are taught never to play with matches. I was also taught this. People are told this so that they will realize how much damage one match can do to a house or town. The point is, when parents teach us not to play with matches, they're actually teaching us not to burn.

We observe much destruction caused by fires every year. There are ways to prevent this terrible disaster. First of all, never leave a stove or oven on when you leave the house. Secondly, never leave matches in the reach of small children. We have this almost every year "Third, keep gas away from fires. These are just a few steps. There are plenty more, and they all follow under the topic for us to "learn not to

Sixth Grade St. Clare School

LEARN NOTTO BURN

Playing with matches could cause fires. When camping, always let adults light your campfires because the campfire could become a forest

While cooking in the kitchen, be extra careful not to cause fires especially when cooking with grease. Grease fires can be very difficult to put out. When you have a grease fire, never try to put it out with water. Water only makes it worse. Always put a pot cover over the pot so it will smother.

If you are ever in a house that is on fire these are the things to remember. If the way out is on fire go to a room in the house that is not. on fire. When you get in always stick a cloth out of the window so the firemen will now what room you are

American Citizenship Challenge theme of VFW scholarship event

"The Challenge of American Citizenably" is the theme of the 40th annual Voice of Democracy scriptwriting program being sponsored locally by VFW Post No. 3263 in Bay

St. Louis. The Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program, open to 10th, 11th and 12th grade students, offers local district and national recognition and awards with the top national award being a $14,000 acholarship.

Charles Carver, post commander, serges students interested in participating to contact Coach Truman A. Schultz Sr. at VFW Post No. 3363, 211 3rd St., Bay St. Louis, MS 20620 or call 467-1881, 467-9067, 467-9136 or Participating students are encouraged to tape their scripts using professional equipment available at seoperating radio stations. The recorded soript must be at least three minutes and not over 5 minutes in length, it can be recorded on red type magnetic tape at a speed of 7% inches per second or Dendine for entries in the local Hon in Nov. 12. Bolimbir smid program last year.

Tapes will be judged for content, originality and delivery.

The winner from Mississippi will receive a five-day all-expanse paid trip to Washington, D.C., next March together with winners from Germany, the District of Columbia, Overseas and the 50 states.

They will visit national monuments and meet high government officials. National awards in addition to the $14,000 first place acholarship include $7,000, $4,500, $2,500, $2,500 and $,1000 acholarships for second through sixth place win-

The program now in its 40th year, is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States and its Ladies Auxiliary. The National Association of Secondary School Principals has placed the Voice of Democracy Program on the Advisory List of National Contests and Activities for 1966/87.

"Participation in the Voice of Democracy Program gives students experience in writing and speaking—gives flown a chance to reflect on our mulion and its meaning for them," Sobolz added.

"Students win more than awards and scholarships when they participate in the VFW Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program," said Carver. Some of the fringe benefits, according to Carver, are increased selfconfidence and poise, experience in communicating with others and valuable training in self expression.

For the state winners, there is also the broadening experience of a fiveday tour of Washington, D.C., and the opportunity to make lasting friendships with the other state win-

In the 25 years that the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary have sponsored the voice of Democracy Program, more than 5,000,000 high school students have participated. From among the state winners, six national winners are chosen to receive a total of $32,500 in scholar-

"One of the greatest benefits to young people who take part in the program is that by thinking, writing and speaking up for their country, they gain a better appreciation of their ebligation to maintain our nation's freedom heritage," Carver

ROAST STUFFED PUMPKIN:

A VEGETABLE TREAT FOR THANKSGIVING

Here's a hearty side dish-or even a vegetarian substitute for the Thanksgiving turkey-that's certain to be a holiday hit!

ROAST STUFFED PUMPKIN (serves 6 to 8)

2 tablespoons of margarine I large, coarsely chopped onion

1 cup of diced celery 1 cup of sliced mushrooms

8 to 10 slices of whole wheat bread 1 cup of chopped apples

1/2 cup of coarsely chopped walnuts 1/2 cup of coarsely chopped Brazil nuts

2/3 cup of raisins

2 eggs 1/2 stick of butter 2 or 3 cloves of garlic, finely chopped

1 teaspoon of oregano 1 teaspoon of sage

1/2 teaspoon of cinnamon 1/2 teaspoon of nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon of cumin (powdered)

1/4 teaspoon of salt

1/4 teaspoon of freshly ground pepper

1 cup of dry white wine

1 pumpkin, 8 to 10 inches in diameter

1/2 stick (approx.) of butter or margarine

The Stuffing: Melt 2 tablespoons of margarine in a large skillet and sauté the chopped onion over medium heat until the pieces are limp and translucent. Then add the diced celery and cook for 3 to 4 minutes. Toss in the sliced muchrooms, cook for 1 minute, and remove the pan from the heat.

Next, toast the whole wheat bread and cut it into 3/4" cubes. Put these in a large mixing bowl and add the sautéed vegetables, apple pieces, chepped nuts, and raisins.

Beat the two eggs in a separate container and pour them into the bowl. Mix everything thoroughly.

Let the mixture sit for a moment, then place the butter in a small frying pan and heat it till it melts and starts to bubble. Add the finely chopped garlic pieces and sents them for A minute. Now pour this sauce over the ingredients in the bowl and mix the stuffing with a large spoon, Sprinkle in the oregano, sage, cinnamon, matter, camin, salt, and pepper. To finish up, pour in the cup of white wine and blend thoroughly.

The Pumpkin: Prepare the pumpkin by cutting a large circle around the stem (as if you were making a jack-o'-lantern). Lift that portion off and discard it. Then remove all the incide and statement that the statement and seem that all the inside seeds and stringy matter with a large, sturdy, metal spoon, and fill the pumpkin with dressing. Press the broaded mixture into the shell with your hands to Make sure your pumpkin is completely stuffed.

Next, using a sharp kitchen knife, cut several small, sktlike pockets at different levels in the exterior wall of the pumpkin. Dab a pat of butter or margarine late each of

With that done, place the stuffed pumpkin in an oiled baking dish and cook, in a pre-heated 350° oven, for about 2-1/2 hours. (Cooking time may vary, depending on the thickness of the pumpkin's flesh.) As the pumpkin bakes, the butter will trickle down from one side slit to another, finally winding up in the pan. Periodically basts the pumpkin by bringing the juices up to the top with a pastry brash.

When the aroma is too good to be believed, the skin is a rich orange-brown, and the exposed stuffing is dark and crisp, your pumpkin is probably done. But it's best to test it with a fork to make sure! When the utensil goes in and out of the flesheaselly, remove the dish from the oven and let it cool for 20 to 30 minutes before serving.

For FREE additional information on pumpkins and on THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS magazine, send year name and address and ask for Reprint No. 552: "The Pumpkin ... A Challenge to Creative Cooking." # Math task force formed in state

Dr. Richard Boyd, state superintendent of education, reports the appointment of a 14-member advisory committee to recommend ways to improve student achievement in mathematics.

In describing the objectives of the Math Initiative Task Force, Dr. Boyd stated, "On virtually every measurement of student achievement, mathematics is the area of poorest results among the students of Mississippi. The ACT collegeentrance examination results released last week show that Mississippi students are scoring at their highest level in the last 21 years in English and in the sciences. However, our students do not fare well in mathematics."

"We are not sure what the reasons are for our low student achievement in mathematics, so I am asking the committee to explore every aspect of the situation: the curriculum, instructional techniques, teacher knowledge of subject matter-anything that the committee feels may be causing the problem."

The Task Force will have its first meeting in late October and will make recommendations to the State Board of Education in the spring of

Dr. Boyd said, "Included on the committee are three people from the private sector. Many industries in Mississippi have a vital need for a work force that has mathematics and science skills because of today's advanced technology. If Mississippi is to advance in economic development, our school system must graduate students who have the skills needed by employers."
